The book's back

In 1981, the Valhalla, plagued by financial difficulties and student apathy, ceased to exist after eleven years of publication.

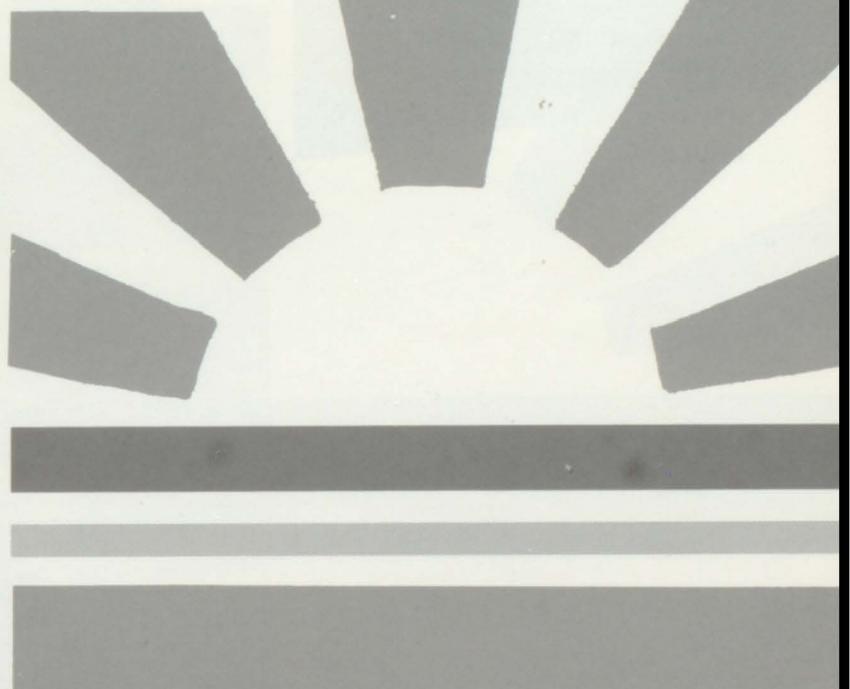

Two students and the adviser attended a weeklong workshop at Georgia Tech last August. They won this plaque for "Best Treatment of Theme" for the opening section of this book.

Karen Bonnett, Debbie Swift, and Angela Huff approach the manager of Attaway Tire Company concerning advertising.

Most people never dream of the work that goes into a publication. Contrary to popular opinion, yearbooks don't materialize out of thin air on delivery date. Hours of work with materials like these are involved.

New rules, new courses greet students

Students returned to campus to find considerable changes in what many had taken for granted as permanent privileges. First, students were no longer allowed to smoke. Second, seniors could graduate only in June. Finally, only work program students with jobs were eligible to leave school before 2:30 p.m.

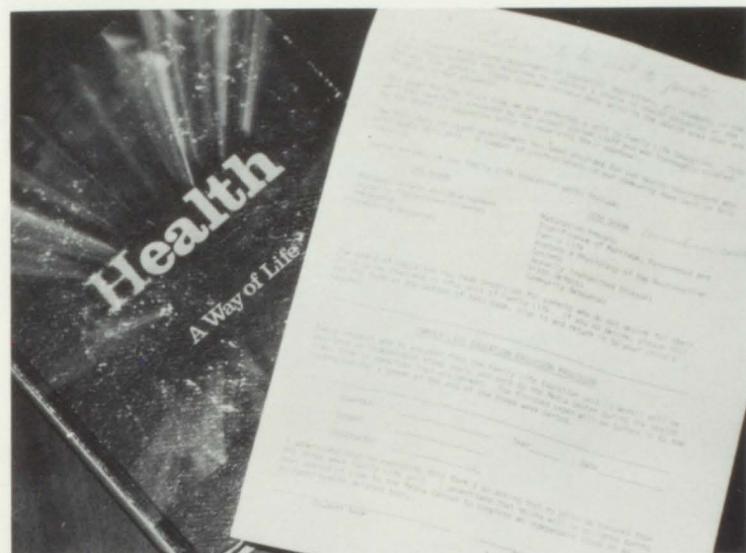

Also new this year were two new classes: computer education and sex education.

The hour of eleven o'clock no longer was the end of the school day for those lucky seniors who only needed three classes to complete graduation requirements.

In harmony with a new emphasis on tougher academic standards, seniors could no longer graduate early.

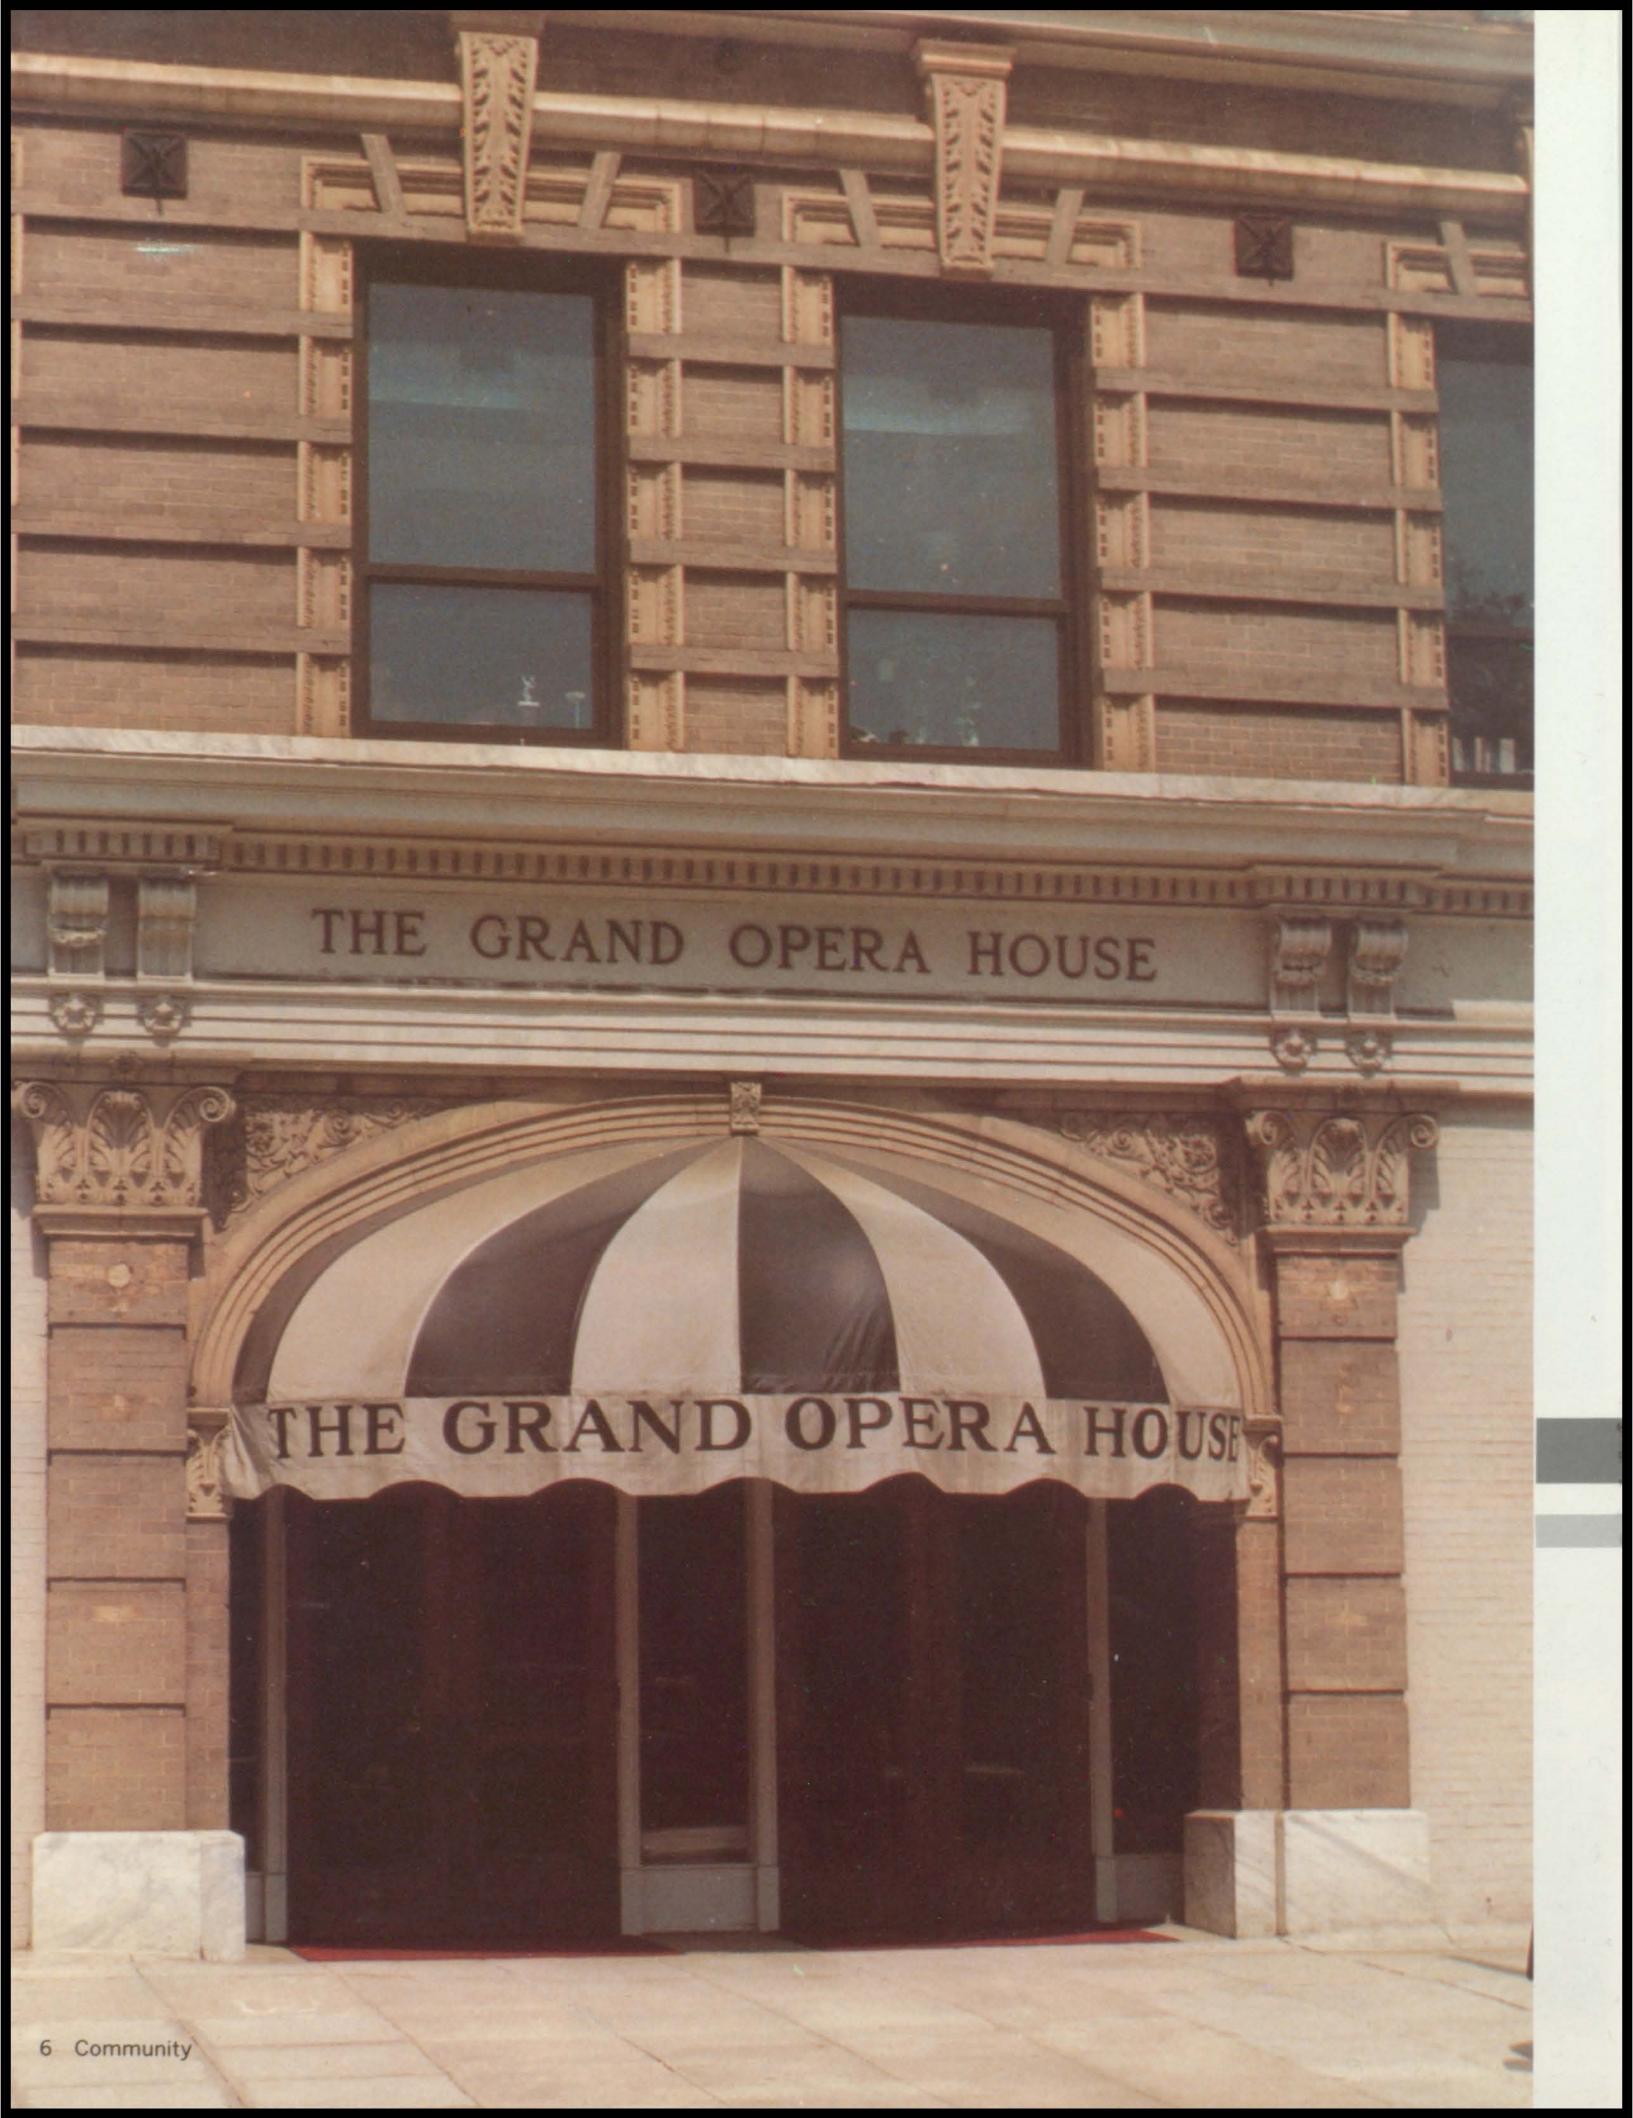

Until this year, students were allowed to smoke at certain times in designated areas. With the new smoking ban, no tobacco products of any kind could be brought on campus by Bibb County students.

The computer magnet cluster moved to the senior high buildings with this year's sophomore class.

The highly controversial sex education program was incorporated into the curriculum after several years of study and discussion by board members, a task force, and the general public. Students received the instruction from specially selected and trained health instructors. The instruction was strictly voluntary, with letters being sent home for parents to approve.

Community landmarks get facelift

A new beginning . . .

A new beginning . . . Student life, though similar in pattern each year, is woven from unique threads. Yes, there's always a bit of school spirit; there's always a homecoming queen; there's always the seemingly infinite number of assignments and tests. However, as the fabric of student life begins to emerge each year, there are always new names and faces.

Spring Fever: catch it!

The Spring Fever tradition began in February, 1983, as a result of the enthusiasm of students who attended the leadership conference at Mercer University.

The idea was to stir up more school spirit with such activities as a talent show, a beauty contest for boys on opposite sex day, two weeks of dressup activities like Homecoming Week, and a breakfast for the teachers.

Fun Day was the climax of the two weeks. During this field day atmosphere, the classes competed against each other in relay races.

Spring Fever '83 was such a success that students planned to do it every year.

One of the most popular couples at Northeast is Darryl Boatwright and Faye Harris.

Part of the fun of dating is checking out each other. Here talking about last Saturday night are Conrad Purdy, Rennazo Tharpe, Vantoine Eason, Cornelius Davis, and Jeffery Mills.

Sheri Wimberly and Eddie Harris are newcomers to Northeast.

Two by two

The number of couples here at Northeast has grown tremendously. There is hand-holding, hugging, and such as far as the eye can see.

The Valhalla staff talked to a few couples about what they see in each other.

Willie Spann and Nicole Weaver have been dating for 10 months. Willie says, "Nicki has a nice personality, and she's fun to be around." Nicole says, "I like Willie's personality, too; he also has a great sense of humor." Nicki and Willie go to a variety of places on dates such as the movies, concerts, and out to eat.

Kenneth "Dean" Williams and Stephanie James have been going out for over two years. They feel that there is some kind of special bond that holds them together. Dean says, "I like the way she looks and the way she carries herself."

The tallest couple at Northeast would have to be our basketball playing duo, Kerry Hammonds and Tawanya Mucker.

Girls, too, compare note on the weekend, says Lawanda Reese, Liz Cabiness, Katrina Glover, Cheryl Hill, and Carolyn Thomas.

Stephanie likes the way Dean treats her. She says, "He makes me feel like I'm one of the most important parts of his life."

Mark Jones and Brenda Newman have been going together for over 12 months. Says Brenda about Mark, "I like his personality, his looks, and his very fine body." Coincidentally, Mark just happens to like these very characteristics about Brenda. On their "very exciting dates" (as described by Mark), they go to the movies, the bowling alley, and many other places.

James Califf and Wendy Williams have been dating for over eight months. James says, "I like Wendy's looks as well as her personality." Wendy says that she likes the same things about James. On dates they go riding, to games, and to the Northside bowling alley. Their dates sound fun-filled.

We're red hot!

School spirit at Northeast has taken a decided turn for the better.

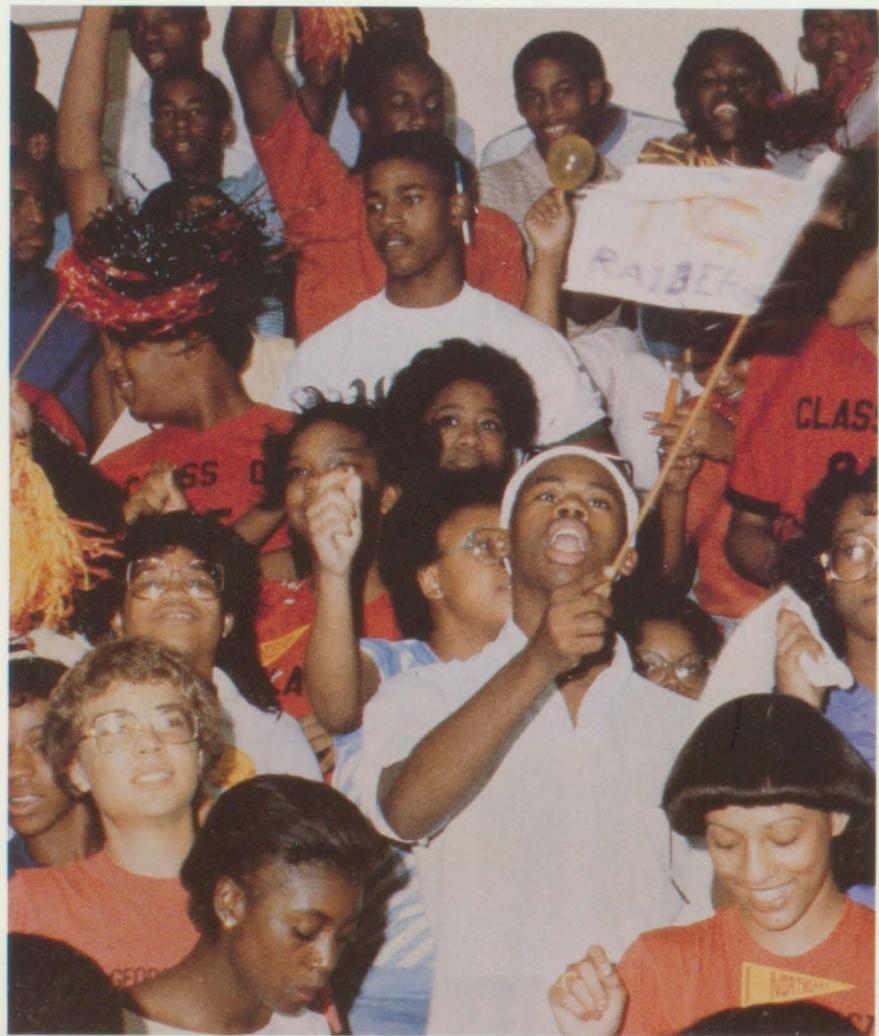

Attendance for athletic teams was up over numbers from a year ago.

Banners were more frequent and more attractive. There were even some motorcades. Decorating the cars at school and then driving to the stadium seemed to solidify support for the teams.

Competition for the spirit stick between the classes has never been stronger. The pep rallies also had a new wrinkle — the toilet paper roll.

Sophomores show the juniors and seniors how to wrap each other in the toilet paper roll.

Making dough

Working students at Northeast are generally happy about their work.

A variety of work settings are represented — local fast food restaurants, grocery stores, clothing stores, etc.

Students work for many reasons. Senior Michele Gray said, "I work because I like meeting new people. I also like the experience I'm gaining because of working."

Junior Marcus Johnson said, "The work I'm doing now will help me when I apply for another job."

Many students just work for the money and to have something to do in their spare time.

It's not all positive, though. Senior Samaria Snead said, "I don't like the long hours. You don't have much time to study."

LaShelle Demps agreed, "I hate it when the business is slow. I am doing my best, but the manager gets all over me."

Most students seem to think that working is more enjoyable than anything else. Receiving school credit makes it all worthwhile.

Punk Rock Day, Opposite Sex Day are Homecoming Week hits

The week preceding our Homecoming game against the powerful Baldwin Braves was known as Homecoming week.

Homecoming Week was devised to bring spirit onto our campus and strength to our football team. The five days are used to let the students be free-spirited and the most spirited of these students usually participate in each day's activity.

The most popular days this year were Punk Rock Day and Opposite Sex Day.

The climax of Homecoming Week is, of course, the football game which, unfortunately, our Raiders lost 0-36. Nevertheless, Homecoming Week brought forth tremendous spirit from our students and faculty which is its main purpose.

Willie Spann Lisa Bentley capture Mr. and Miss Northeast

The night of the Homecoming football game is the climax to Homecoming Week. The week has been filled with school spirit, and it is now time to get down to bigger and better things. The football game is not the only large event that will take place, though. The persons who will hold the titles of Mr. Northeast, Miss Northeast, Mr. Senior, Miss Senior, Miss Junior, and Miss Sophomore are to be announced at halftime of the football game. Also presented at halftime will be Miss Appling B who was announced earlier in the week.

The winners were Willie Spann, Mr. Northeast; Lisa Bentley, Miss Northeast; Carlton Phelps, Mr. Senior; Angela Wiggins, Miss Senior; Stephanie Harris, Miss Junior; Donna Ward, Miss Sophomore; and Patrice Greenhill, Miss Appling B.

These students hold these titles with pride and dignity, as well they should, for they were chosen to hold these positions by their peers.

Senior Superlatives

The Senior Superlatives were nominated by the Northeast faculty. The criteria for nomination were: (1) the student must be a senior; (2) must have a scholastic GPA of 3.50 with no grades below a "C"; (3) must not be a disciplinary problem; (4) should participate in one or more extracurricular activities; (5) should be above the average in deportment, leadership, and service to Northeast High School.

"I plan to continue my education at either a surrounding college or vocational school. I will be studying the computer sciences: data processing, computer operating, programming, etc."

Ed Flowers

"My plans are set in the military field. I will be working as a personal financial records clerk. Also, I will be attending school to obtain my Bachelor of Business Administration. My career goals are in the area of finance."

Michelle Buckholtz

"I'm going into pre-medicine at either the University of Georgia or Auburn. I plan to become a dermatologist."

Angela Huff

"I want to enlist in the United States Army for two years. I will attend a junior college, majoring in business management. Afterwards, I plan to attend General Motors Institution of Management and Engineering."

Valerie Driskell

"I plan to attend Georgia Tech and major in engineering. Eventually I plan to start my own business in the field."

Carlton Phelps

"I am going to Georgia Baptist School of Nursing in Atlanta. I will go there for three years to become a Registered Nurse. Then I will go to the Medical College of Georgia for two years to get my B.S. degree."

Brenda Elrod

"I plan to attend Valdosta State College and major in nursing. I plan to work one year at a hospital in the Critical Care Unit, and continue my studies at Georgia Baptist Hospital in anesthesiology. My goal is to become a nurse anesthetist."

beginning...*

Academics are a vital element at Northeast. More now than ever, our students are beginning to demand academic excellence of themselves. We have new teachers with new teaching philosophies, and this helps to make learning a much more pleasant process. Between the new teacher and the new enthusiasm for learning by the students, colleges should expect to see many Northeast faces on their campuses in the years to come.

Sophomore Bryant Aaron learns the basics in his drafting class.

The academic letter is awarded to senior high students who have excelled in academics, and have maintained a 4.0 average since the ninth grade.

Student teachers enjoy Northeast experience

Student teachers have gained teaching experience by helping out veteran teachers already on the job.

The four student teachers at Northeast this year came from different colleges from around Georgia.

Miss Judy Danenberg, teaching for Mrs. Mary Landrum, is a senior at Mercer University who is in art education. Miss Hannah Allen, student teaching for Mrs. Claudia Hutchings, is a graduate of Georgia College who enjoys history/library science.

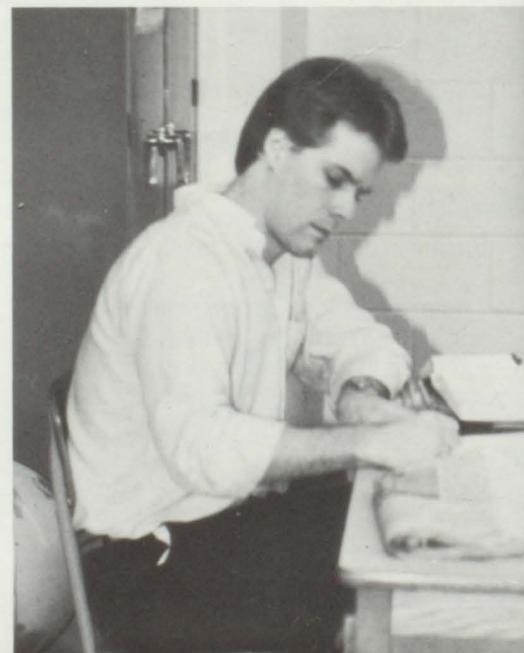

Mr. Christopher Wood, who is helping Coach Walter Johnson in physical education, is a graduate of South Georgia College. Mr. Mark Atkins, who is helping Mrs. Jeanetta Echols teach social studies, is a senior at Georgia College.

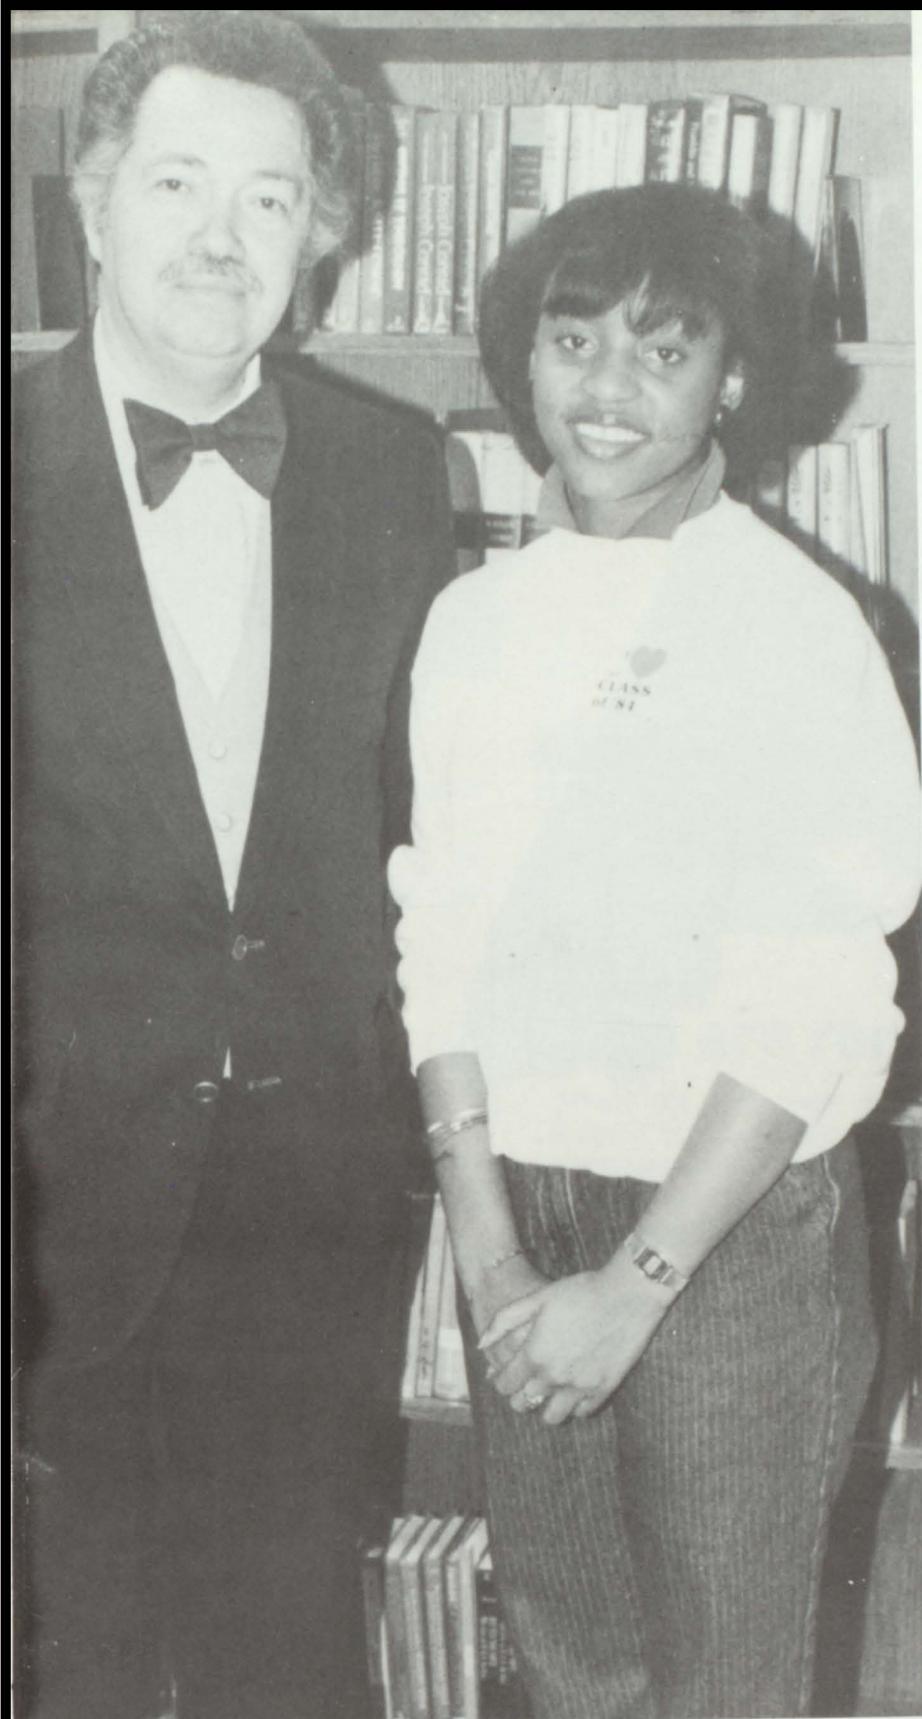

The student teachers really enjoy themselves while they are getting some teaching background.

STAR Teacher Mr. G. Lewis Wright and STAR Student Debra Bryant show their happiness. Selection of the STAR Student is based on SAT scores.

The booklets shown here are from just some of the tests that students take.

Tests are big part of academic life

Three major tests are taken by Northeast students: the Georgia Basic Skills Test (GBST); the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB); and the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

The GBST is designed to measure minimum competency in math and reading areas. All students beginning with the Class of 1985 must pass this test to receive a diploma.

The ASVAB is a group of twelve diagnostic tests that measure a person's aptitude in five separate career field areas and provides an indication of academic ability. The test areas are general information, numerical operations, attention to detail, word knowledge, arithmetic reasoning, space perception, mathematics knowledge, electronic information, mechanical comprehension, general science, shop information, and automotive information. The optional, free test is designed for all students.

The SAT is a multiple-choice test made up of separately timed verbal and mathematical sections. The verbal questions measure a person's ability to understand what he reads and the extent of his vocabulary. Mathematical questions measure a person's ability to solve problems involving arithmetic reasoning, algebra, and geometry. These abilities have been shown to be related to successful academic performance in college. The SAT does not measure other kinds of abilities which may be associated with success in college, such as special talents or motivation. The test is designed for all college-bound students.

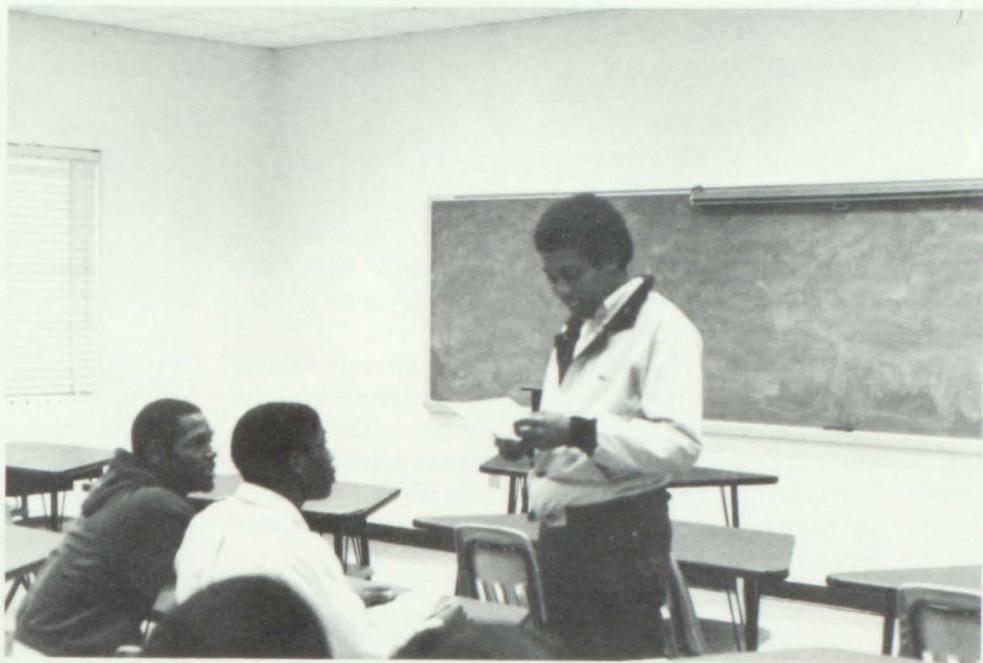

Mrs. Katrina Greenhill checks roll before class begins.

Paperwork is a job for all teachers, including substitutes.

Subs are real teachers, too!

When the bell rings at any school, it usually means that it is time to enter your next class and prepare yourself for another hour of learning.

But what is this? As you take your first step inside the room, you notice a stranger behind the teacher's desk. Your mind begins to ponder the many ways in which you will goof off today since you have a substitute teacher. Will you talk to your friends, write letters, or just catch up on the sleep you've lost since school started? None of these, if you're smart.

The phrase "When the cats away, the mice will play" does not apply to this situation, for a substitute teacher is exactly what the title suggests, a teacher! This man or woman is just as qualified for his/her role and has as much authority over you as does your regular teacher and will exercise that authority. So when you have a substitute teacher, be prepared to do exactly what you usually do, work!!!

Northeast re-evaluated for SACS accreditation

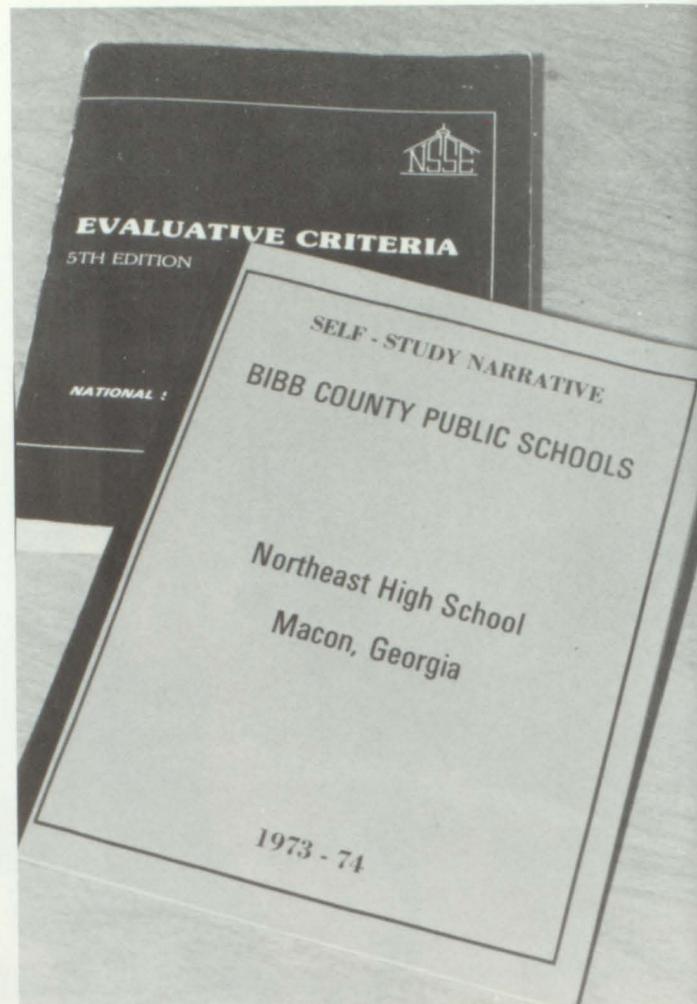

Every ten years the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) conducts self-study evaluations for all high schools in Bibb County. Continued accreditation is at stake.

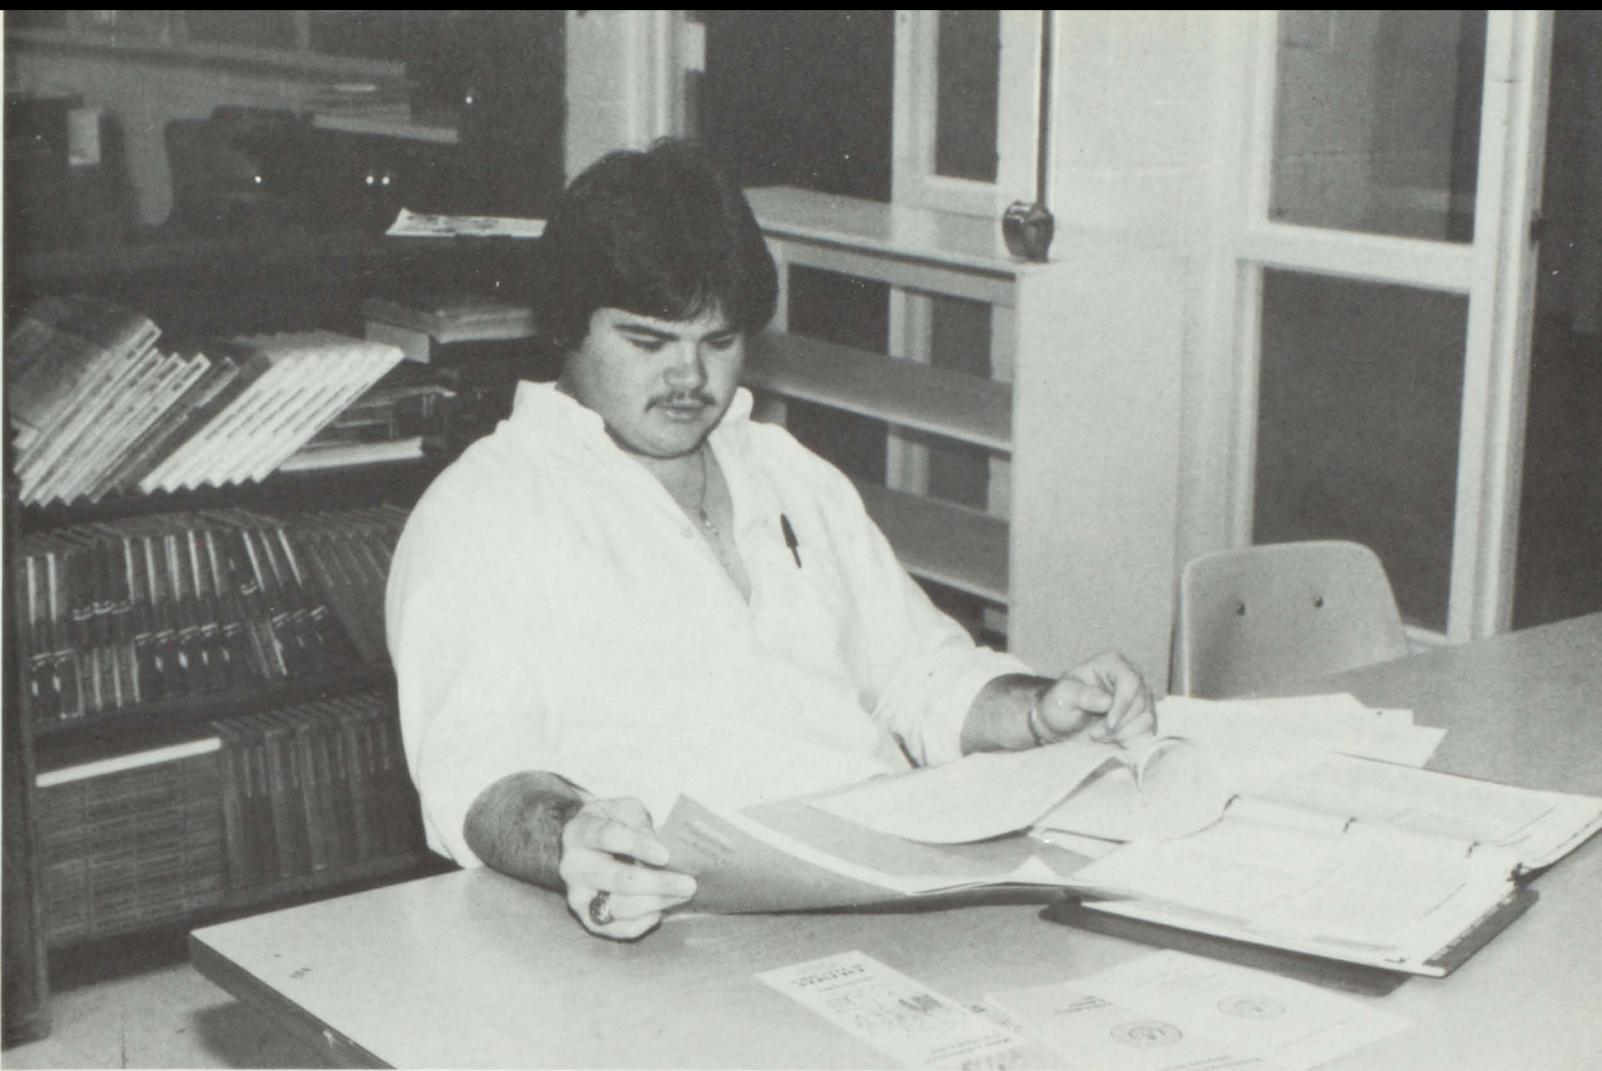

Each school is judged in terms of what its faculty and administration say it is trying to achieve and the extent to which it is meeting the needs of the students enrolled and the community it serves.

The visiting teams were on campus April 29-May 1 to interview members of the Northeast family and its community.

Using the Evaluative Criteria, Northeast faculty members created a Self-Study Narrative like the one shown from 1973-74.

Steering Committee members plan strategy for the self-study. They are Mr. William Grant, Mrs. Shirley Macklin, Mrs. Patricia McMahon, Ms. Rita Long, Mrs. Claudia Hutchings and (standing) the Rev. Curtis Hardnett, chairman. Not pictured are Mrs. Clara Hollins and Miss Emily Carey.

Ed studies for the next meeting of the commission.

Ed Flowers serves on county education study panel

Senior Ed Flowers was selected to be a member of the Bibb County Commission on Excellence in Education, a citizens' panel appointed this year to evaluate Bibb public schools.

Ed was pleased to be serving on the panel. He said, "I feel very honored to be on the commission because only three students from the whole school system were selected."

Bibb School Superintendent Dr. Thomas Hagler asked Dr. G. Milton Dunaway, Northeast Complex Principal, to choose a student from Northeast who would do a good job on the panel. According to Dr. Dunaway, Dr. Hagler wanted a student who would not mind speaking up in front of adults, who was involved in school activities, who was a good student academically, and who would represent Northeast well.

The commission met about once a month and will meet until about the middle of next year.

According to Ed, the panel's objectives were "to see if we agree or disagree with the national report (A Nation at Risk); to see if any suggestions from that report could be used in our school system; and to find ways to use the suggestions in the school system."

Ed was quick to point out that the commission was "advisory" in nature, however. It had no authoritative power; it could only "recommend" actions and ideas for school officials.

One idea that the commission discussed was whether or not the length of the school day should be increased. Concerning this controversial proposal, Ed said, "I haven't made any definite stand on the issue of the seven-hour day."

Another idea that the commission studied was whether the school year should be lengthened from 180 days to 220 days as in Japan. Ed seemed to be leaning toward a decision here. He said, "I believe that we attend school long enough during the year. There are a lot of reasons for and against a longer school year."

Ed said, "The (national) report is divided into many sections and covers many aspects of education. Some of the suggestions I agree with and some I don't."

He added, "I believe that with the interest and enthusiasm that has already been shown, that the commission on excellence will be very successful."

Special events break monotony

Here at Northeast, certain occasions are welcome to tear the students away from their everyday routine and allow them to blow off a little steam.

One such activity is pep rallies. Pep rallies are designed to give our athletes spirit. Students are allowed to cheer at the top of their lungs and work off frustration that has seized them during the week. The class that cheers the loudest wins the spirit stick and is therefore rewarded for releasing their tensions.

Another activity is assemblies. Assemblies allow the students to gain information on up-to-date subjects as government, education, and school rules. Our assemblies are enlightening despite the fact that a few students are sometimes on their worst behavior.

Two other monotony breakers are fire drills and bomb threats. These are two of our more serious class interrupters, but every safety precaution must be taken. Fire drills and bomb threats are also costly, for it costs the school $3,300 for each bomb threat to be checked out.

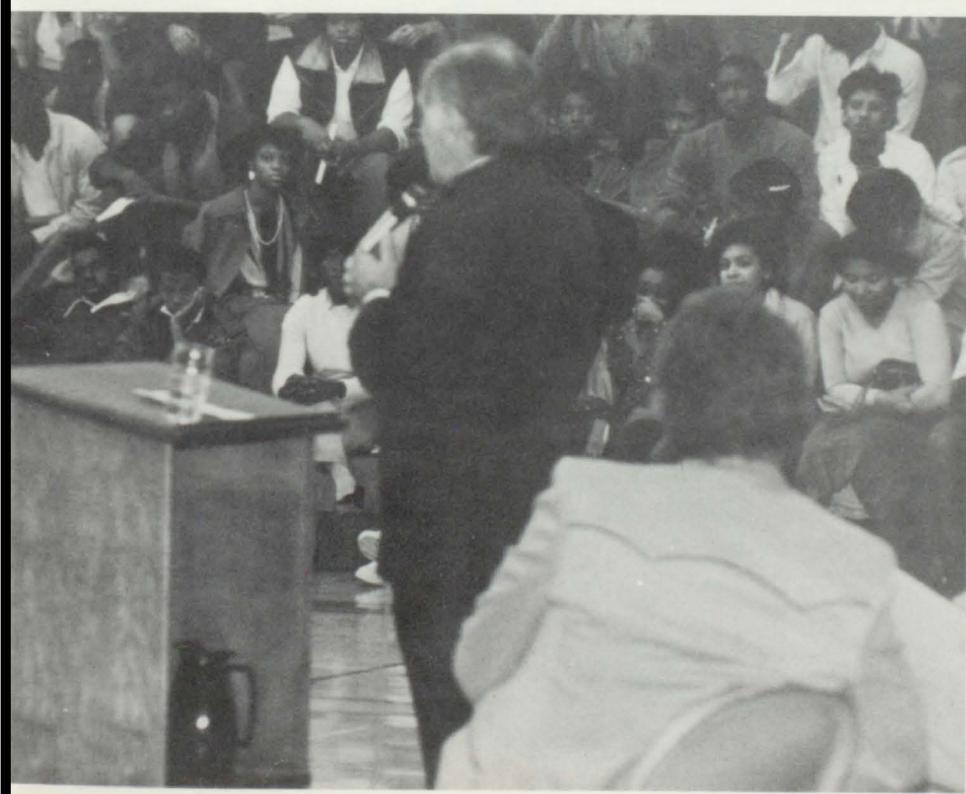

Field trips also help to break monotony. Field trips are mostly taken for class-related purposes, although some supervisions take educational field trips as a reward for 95 percent or better attendance.

At pep rallies, our band is always enthusiastic.

Front to back Lisa Baldwin, Cheryl Ann Banks, Ed Flowers, Debbie Swift, Karen Bonnett, Chuck Whitaker, and Angela Huff sack out on their way home from a day in Athens.

During American Education Week, Father Keil briefs the students on the importance of education.

Life easier now at NE for multi-handicapped

The multi-handicapped students at Northeast find life at school much easier, since the school system installed an elevator, ramps, and bus lifts for their personal use. These facilities have made it easier for them to transfer from building to building. The student body has done all it can to make their stay at Northeast High School the best possible.

They are an important part of the Northeast High School student body. They participate in activities, which include Special Olympics, fund raisers, picnics, and parties. We find that this makes life for them at Northeast much more enjoyable.

Study styles vary

Here at our school, academics is stressed above all other things. Although passing one's test is the most satisfying climax, one must be disciplined enough to put forth the effort to pass the test. Thus, study styles are almost as important as passing the test itself.

One style of studying is what one might call the "go for the gusto." This style involves the student literally burying his head into his books, determined to learn. Although this process is time-consuming and tiring it pays high dividends.

Another study style is the more relaxed and laidback way of studying. This student does indeed study, but not with the vigor that it takes to make a top-flight student. Thus, he should not expect to be valedictorian of his class.

Still another style of studying, for some students, is to not study at all. Though this way may seem odd, some students do in fact choose this method of studying. Most students with this study style are content just to "get by," but it is they who are being hurt most by this style. This study style is a bad one and is not encouraged on our campus.

Donna Crosby exemplifies a student after hard studying.

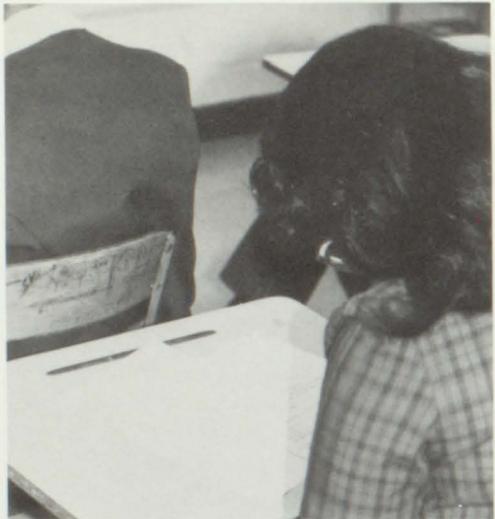

Pre-Calculus students Brenda Elrod, Parrish Swift, and Wesley Haynes use spare classtime as a study period.

Northeast competes academically, too

Northeast students have many areas of competition to choose from. The vocational clubs such as DECA, FBLA, and FHA participate in regional competitions with essays and other forms of writing. VICA and VOCA also compete regionally. The construction class actually builds things for judging.

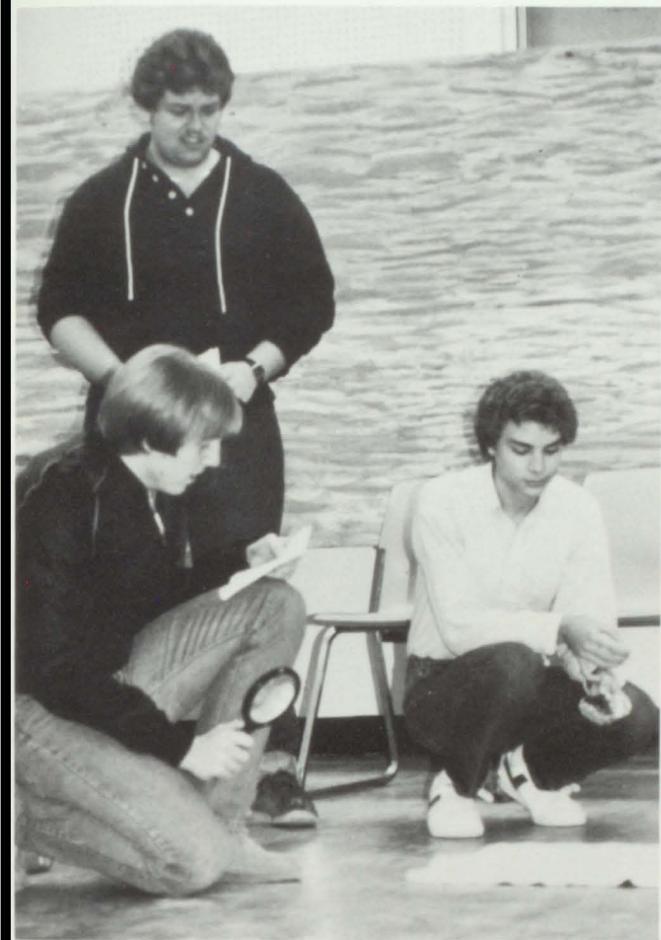

Northeast's literary productions compete. The Salmagundi is widely known as one of the best in the state. The best poems, stories, artwork, and photography submitted by a diversity of students are chosen by the editors and staff. The Golden Star newspaper and the Valhalla yearbook both are judged for content and design on state, regional, and national levels.

A literary production being performed for the first time was the play directed by Mrs. LaMerle Loveland. The play will be judged next year, but was shown to the student body this year. The play was entitled "To Death Do Us Part" and the actors included Michelle Buckholtz, Judy Clark, Cheryl Collins, Ed Flowers, Jody Harrison, Wesley Haynes, Angela Huff, Keith Minter, Jay Pittman, and Richard Young.

One of the most prestigious competitions is the Golden Eagle Award given by the Macon Telegraph and News. The awards are in categories of Math, Science, Social Studies, Music, Drama, Journalism, Industrial and Vocational, Foreign Language, English and Literature, Citizenship and Arts. Winners receive trophies and $300, while runners-up receive plaques and $50. Northeast usually does well in these competitions and has placed in English and Literature every year since its beginning.

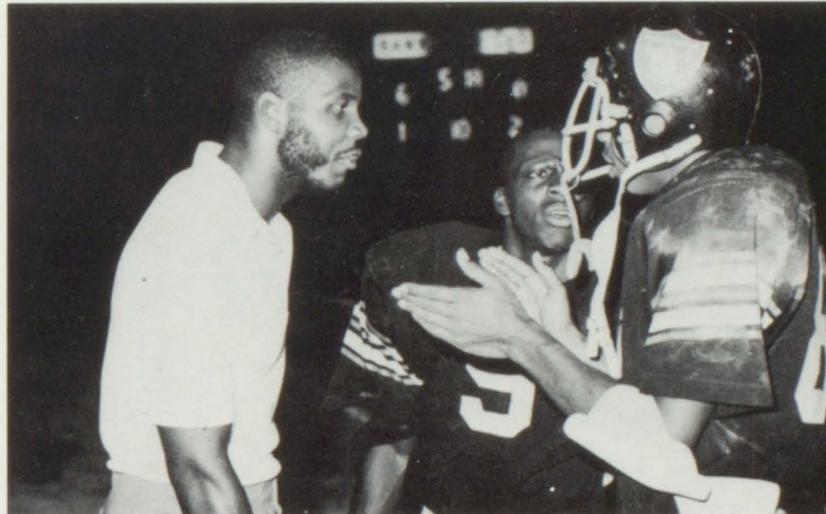

A new beginning...

This year our sports teams are better than ever. Our athletes are taught to excel in sportsmanship and togetherness. Also, our coaches teach our athletes to give 100 % each and every time they touch the playing surface. Though this concept has always been at Northeast, some of the coaches have not. There are some new coaches. Also, some of our coaches have released one coaching responsibility to take another. These coaches, along with the veteran coaches, add new dimensions and new coaching philosophies. We expect to field excellent teams and athletes in every sport.

Cheerleading is tough, but fun

Many people never think about what a tough job it is being a good cheerleader. The girls practice for two to two-and-a-half hours three days a week, then there are the ballgames (during basketball season two or three nights a week) — none of which leaves much time for homework or leisure time to spend with family and friends.

Cheerleaders are expected to maintain at least a C average and carry themselves with grace, poise, and pride, not only in school but in the community as well.

Fund-raising is another vital part of being a cheerleader. Doughnuts, stationery, and jewelry were sold this year to raise money for camp and other necessities.

CHEERLEADERS

The 1983-84 Varsity Cheerleaders had a pretty good year. Last summer they attended a four-day International Cheerleading Foundation (ICF) camp at Mercer University, winning various awards for their hard work and dedication. These awards were for:

- most spirited squad
- best pyramid
- team cooperation
- execution.

Sometimes unnoticed, B-team cheerleaders still work hard

The 1983-84 B-team cheerleaders have had a hard-working year. Although they do not get much recognition, attention, or a large crowd to cheer in front of, they do their best.

They practice three days a week for two hours which leaves them tired and drained when they finally return home, but to Mrs. Clara Hollins, their adviser, this is no reason for their grades to drop. She is a firm believer in the academics first concept and any cheerleader whose grades are sub-par comes off of the squad. In this manner, the cheerleaders are not only attractive but also intelligent.

Also, they had to attend a strenuous cheerleading camp last summer to polish up their talents. The B-team cheerleaders are working hard to become tomorrow's varsity cheerleaders.

Raiders win City Championship

"We're #1!" That's what Coach Jesse Anthony seems to be saying as two weary players look on.

For only the second time ever, the Raiders, led by Head Coach Ken Brewer, won the City Championship by defeating the Central Chargers and the Southwest Patriots. The earlier championship came in 1980 when the Raiders broke the "jinx" and beat Central for the first time.

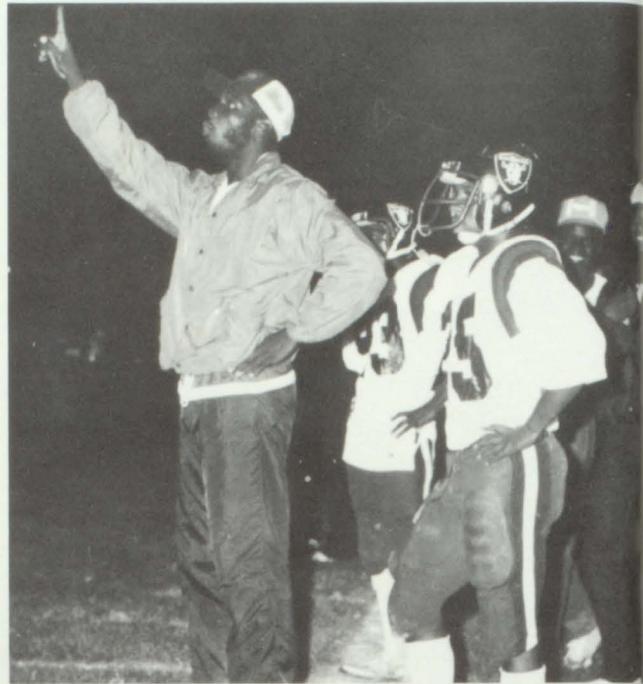

At the end of the season, senior Darryl Boatwright finished among the top defensive backs in the state along with his teammates seniors Calvin Fleming and Shelton Dinkins, and junior Marvin Burkett.

Burkett won Defensive Player of the Week from a local football organization for his efforts in the Peach County game, while senior running back George Dixon won Offensive Player of the Week for his rushing yardage against Perry.

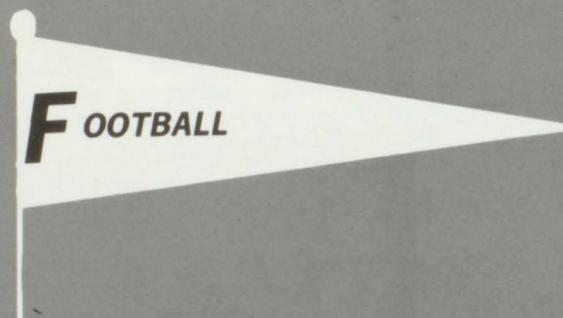

Dixon also ranked high in the state in rushing yardage before the playoffs began.

Senior Michael Rhodes, all-purpose tight end, finished in the top ten receivers.

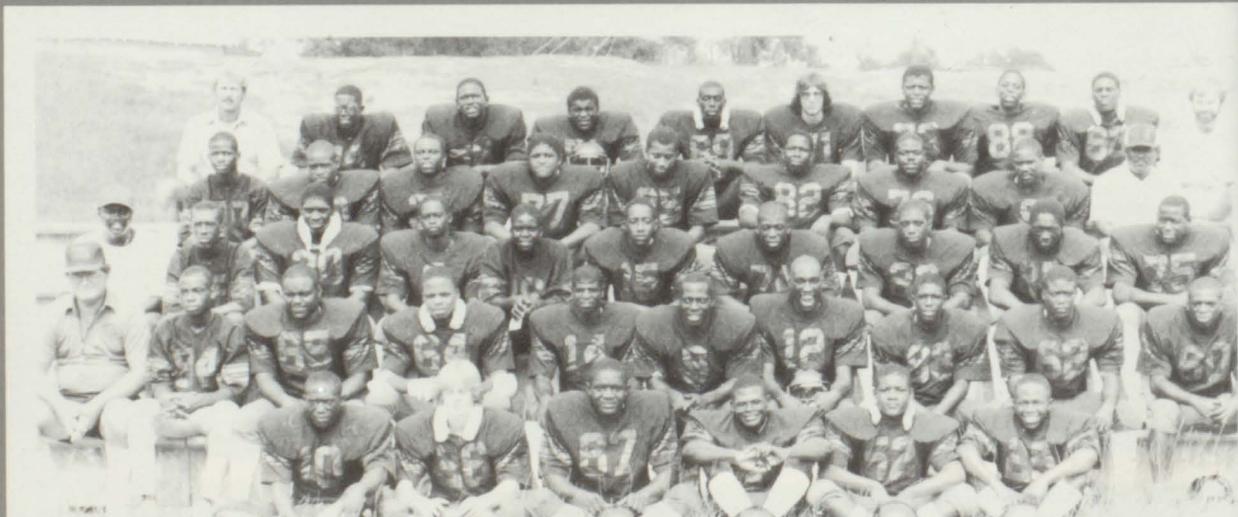

On December 18, Dixon, Fleming and Dinkins were picked for the All-City Football team by the Macon Telegraph and News. Boatwright and Zachary Patterson made second team.

J.V. has winning season

The Northeast Raiders Junior Varsity team had a winning season at 4-2. Their only losses were to crosstown rival Southwest Patriots in the winding seconds of the game (7-14); and to the always-tough Warner Robins Demons (6-19). Some people to look for in the Raiders' future are Cornelius Davis (who led the team in touchdowns and interceptions), Conrad Purdy (who led the team in tackles), and Richard Finney (who led the team in pass receptions). These players, as well as Eric Mason, Maurice Baldwin, Jimmie Bonds, and Terry Clayborn, were those who dressed out with the varsity and who were dependable for the whole season, according to Coaches Michael Myers (head coach) and Charlie Simmons (assistant coach).

Zachary Patterson walks off a cramp on the sidelines.

Dark clouds spoil girls' softball season

The girls' softball team for 1983 had planned on finishing the season with the same great record as in the past. They had planned on going to the state finals this year, as they have done in the past two seasons of play.

However, this year a dark cloud hovered over the team which finished with a record of two wins and six losses.

Perhaps next year's team can come to life, but there is this obstacle — only three players from this year will be on hand for the 1984 season. Seven players are graduating seniors, so 1984 will be a season to rebuild.

The backbone of this year's team was seven seniors: Cynthia Miller, Anne Glover, Shenella Smith, Angela Jackson, Rhonda Gunn, Latrell Mathews, and Debroada Cornelius (statistician).

Girls win subregion title

The 1983 cross country teams were opposites this year.

The girls' team was more successful than the boys, winning seven out of eight meets and tying the other. Outstanding members of the girls' team were sophomore Carol Turner and senior Felicia Brown. They did a fine job in taking their team to the state.

The boys' team was not as successful as the girls, but they deserve a share of credit for their determination. The boys closed out their season with a record of 3-5. The outstanding boys on the team were juniors Carlton Thomas and Thomas Lowder.

Raiders finish strong despite ineligibility flak

The varsity boys' basketball team held the finest talent in Georgia this year. Returning with 1983 Middle Georgia Player-of-the-Year Kerry Hammonds were fourteen of the best young men in the city.

These facts were revealed in the Raiders' regular season record. They finished the season at 17 wins and 5 losses. However, due to ineligibility of two players, eleven games had to be forfeited. This left the Raiders' record at 6-16. Fortunately, the Raiders were allowed to compete in all post-season play.

During their regular season, the Raiders demolished their three archrivals at least once. The Central Chargers, Baldwin Braves, and Southwest Patriots stood little or no chance of defeating the Raiders and were each manhandled in succession.

Head Coach Walter Johnson and Assistant Coach Lamar Sarter are proud of the accomplishments of this year's varsity team.

B-team suffers disappointing season

The junior varsity basketball team, more commonly known as the B-team, finished the regular season with a record of 5-6.

Participation against varsity teams in the Hancock Central Christmas Tournament, only made the team better. Though they did not finish on top in the tournament, Coach Lamar Sarter was not disappointed in his team's performance.

The B-team players of today are groomed to be tomorrow's varsity players. Therefore, our junior varsity players must be excellent to make the coveted varsity team. With the B-team players growing stronger and better, the varsity team should surpass their level of excellence next season.

Raiderettes soar high

The Raiderettes had another successful regular season this year with a record of 16-6.

Two losses were forfeits which came as the result of an academically ineligible player.

With the loss of three starters, this year was supposed to be a rebuilding year, but with the improved performances of veteran players and the help of newcomers, the Raiderettes have proven that they were ready for the challenge.

Wrestling best ever!

Northeast wrestling team went through one of its best seasons ever with five members qualifying for the state tournament — the most in Northeast wrestling history since 1972. These members were seniors Calvin Fleming and Robert Bryant, juniors Brad Anderson and Marvin Burkett, and sophomore Dexter Wheeler.

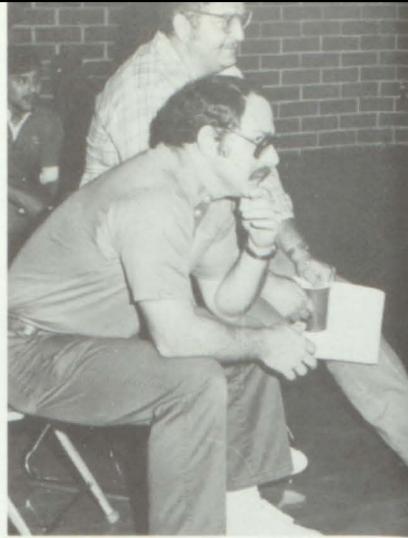

The coaches were very pleased with all of the wrestlers' performances this year. As a team, their record was the best ever at 11-2. To help the team along, four matches came from forfeits by Southwest.

The team came in first place at the West Laurens Tournament and closed out the regular season with a third place finish in the sub-region and a fifth place finish in the region.

Raider track men talented

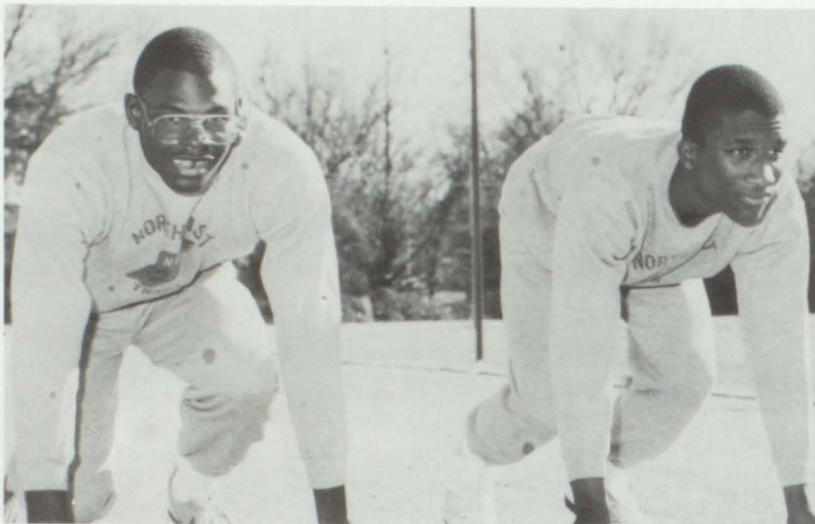

Our varsity boys' track team expected another banner year from its performers.

Returning were several lettermen, including Shelton Dinkins, who participated in the state track meet last year. Also on this year's team was John Fleming, the talented high jumper.

There were many other talented sophomores, juniors, and seniors on this year's team, but Head Coach Walter Daniely counted heavily on Dinkins, Fleming, Calvin Fleming, and John Hurst to carry most of the load.

Coach Daniely was aided by Assistant Basketball Coach Lamar Sarter and Head Wrestling Coach Fred Persley. The team was expected to turn in another top-notch season.

Felicia Brown gets set to ignite the first leg of the relay team.

The varsity girls' track team was looking to match last year's undefeated regular season record. Returning lettermen included the multi-talented Cherrie Duncan, Felicia Brown, and sophomore-sensation Carol Turner.

The talent on this year's team could very well surpass the talent of any other of Northeast's previous teams. Coach Alvin Copeland was confident that the Raiderettes potential was unlimited and that how far their season was extended would depend upon how much heart and determination they would display.

Whatever else happens, one thing is inevitable — the Raiderettes will be competitive and will be winners, as they have been in previous years. Coach Copeland is aided by Assistant Coach Gwendolyn Booker.

Raiders looking for better baseball season

At the beginning of the 1984 baseball campaign, the Raiders hoped to bounce back from some disappointing 1983 games and a won-lost record which did not reflect their true dedication. Coaches Dean Brown and Walter Johnson were looking to George Dixon and Darryl Boatwright for leadership, which they were ready to supply. With plenty of talent behind these two, the Raiders were ready to accept any challenge.

New coach depending on returning talent on golf team

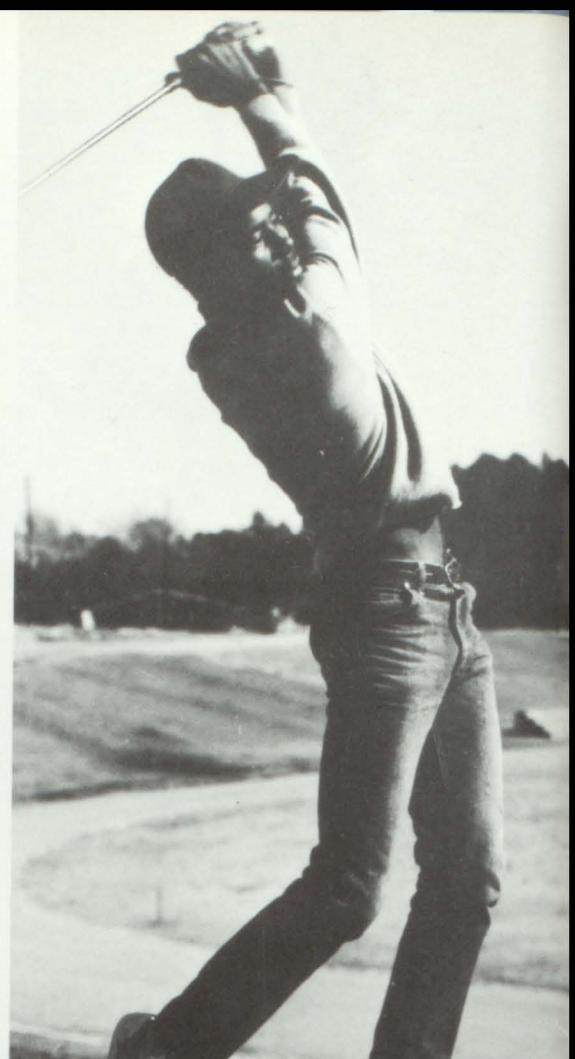

Golf was another sport in which Northeast hoped to field a lot of talent. The team was expected to be led by three returning lettermen. Those three young men were Joseph Spry, Wesley Tharpe, and Stanley Andrews.

Golf also experienced a change in coaches. Though Coach Walter Johnson had traditionally coached our golf players, he relinquished his position and his place was filled by Coach Ken Brewer. With a new coach, many things were subject to change to fit his coaching philosophy.

However, two things did not change. Coach Brewer still wanted his team to show good sportsmanship and to give their all at every match. With these two things, he felt they could not lose many.

Tennis team in rebuilding year

In spring sports, the Northeast tennis team of 1984 was looking to improve upon a disappointing 1983 campaign. With mostly new material, Coach Glynn Woolfolk was looking at the 1984 season as a rebuilding one.

Most of his players were ninth, tenth, and eleventh graders who were hungry and enthused about the new season. With this youth, Coach Woolfolk is looking for his Raiders to be strong in the future.

Coaches find job demanding, but rewarding

The coaches are the most vital part of our athletics. It is their intelligence, along with the players' talents and knowledge, that bring about a winning team. Several of our coaches were interviewed about their feelings about coaching.

Relying to the question of why he became a coach, Walter Johnson, head boys' basketball coach, said, "I became a coach because I love the sport and I needed a job."

Most of the coaches agreed that one must have self-discipline in order to be able to be a coach, teacher, husband, and father. Coach Alvin Copeland, head girls' basketball coach, said, "I find it very difficult to balance other responsibilities because coaching demands so much of you away from your home and family. It helps to have an understanding family and for them to realize that they share in the success or failure of the person who happens to be the coach."

Coaching is not only strenuous, it is also beneficial. Says assistant Football Coach Larry Taylor, "Watching young people grow mentally and physically through sports and trying to be a positive innovator in their development is what I get out of being a coach."

Coaches suffer ups and downs, peaks and valleys, but they seem to enjoy their job. Wrestling Coach Fred Persley made this statement: "If you have aspirations of becoming rich and famous from a financial standpoint, try another field or vocation. But if you enjoy developing young minds and bodies, you can be rich with personal satisfaction that you have helped someone. Coaching is the best way to do this."

Brenda Cliette still making headlines

Brenda Cliette might be the best female athlete ever to perform in the state of Georgia, but she is most definitely the most talented athlete to ever don the Raider red, black, and gold. (She was honored by the Georgia Hall of Fame Committee as the Most Outstanding High School Athlete in the State in 1981 and was named the Most Outstanding Female in the state in 1981 and 1982 by the 100% Wrong Club.)

These facts, however, are evident to her high school coach. Coach Alvin Copeland states, "Bren is one of the best athletes that I have ever had the privilege of coaching. The things that she did for the team are immeasurable. She was an excellent clutch performer, but the thing that separates Bren from most people is that she is so easy to coach and she was never selfish."

Not only was Brenda an outstanding basketball player, but she also was an excellent track star. Brenda was an All-American high school track performer. It now seems evident that she is headed for fame in that area.

To go along with her high school All-American credentials, Bren promptly gained national recognition at Florida

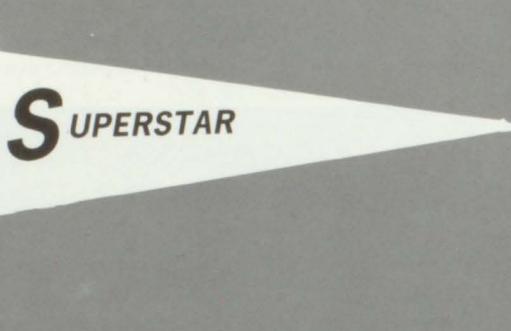

State University in collegiate athletics where she was named Florida State's Female Athlete of the Year for 1982-1983. Her most significant achievement to date has been winning a Gold Medal at the Pan American games in Caracas, but Bren is now in training for the 1984 Olympic Games at Los Angeles.

Despite all of this recognition, Brenda has remained humble and has never forgotten to thank the people that have helped her to attain her goals. Brenda is truly one of a kind.

The sophomores, juniors, seniors and faculty have all expanded their horizons since last year. The sophomores have gained wisdom and experience upon their arrival on the senior high campus. The juniors have begun to settle in and feel a little more comfortable, for the previous year it was they who were the new faces in town. The seniors have inherited the reins of leadership and have first say in most of the school's ongoings. The teachers are enjoying their jobs more and the teacher-student relationships have grown stronger. And even more important, all of the people of Northeast have shown considerably more spirit than they have in previous years.

Senior year is expensive

Perhaps the most expensive year of a person's high school experience is the senior year. During that year, there are many bills and optional class expenses.

Most essential are the following:

Class dues: $3 (or $15 if you didn't pay junior dues).

Cap and gown: $12.

SAT: $11 (if taken).

Senior Photos: $38, for the average package.

Yearbook: $20, plus $8 color fee.

Invitations, cards, and memory book: $30, for the average.

Prom: $135 or so, for dinner, evening wear, corsage, etc.

Senior trip: $200 is the tentative price for New Orleans.

A senior can easily spend hundreds of dollars in the senior year.

Senior supervisor Mr. Lewis Wright measures Alan Ward for that all-important cap and gown.

Seniors plan varied futures

Where will you be in ten years from now? Twenty years? Or fifty years? What are your plans for after graduation? You may become a doctor, a lawyer, or even President of the United States. Or, you may become a professional basketball player, a rock star, or a Solid Gold dancer. Some of you may wind up in jail. You may continue living in Macon, Georgia, or you may travel all over the world. You may even land on the moon.

The day after you graduate will start your life as an independent, responsible adult. What you do with your life is up to you. Nobody can make that decision for you. But, what will you do? Now is the time to plan for your future.

In a recent survey, our seniors were asked what their plans were. Of 312 seniors, 264 responded. Of the 264,

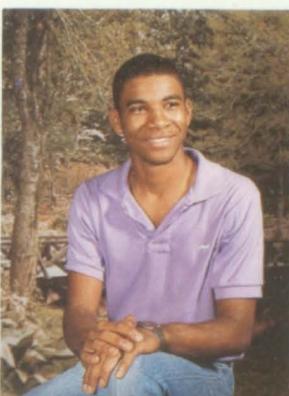

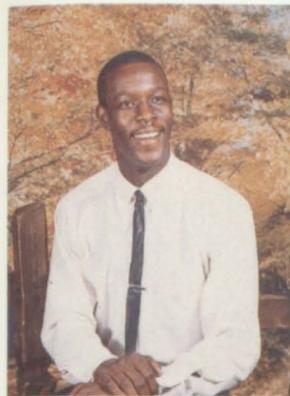

59% said they would continue their education; 55% said they would be working; 33% plan to go into some branch of the armed services; 23% plan to get married; and 5% are undecided or will do something else. (Percentages do not equal 100 because some people answered to more than one choice.)

Our tenth year reunion should be very interesting!

Class rings are a lifetime memory of high school days.

Class rings are key to memory

Everyone dreams of the day he or she will graduate from high school. Becoming a senior involves many things, one of which is the purchase of one's class ring, usually in the junior year.

As you grow older and look back over the years, as you tell your children and grandchildren about the "old days," you may reminisce about your high school days by looking into the jewelry box and digging out your class ring. The memories of friends, teachers, cutting English class, and standing in the lunch line will all come back.

Juniors are spirited bunch

The junior class has displayed extreme enthusiasm in class spirit. They are very vocal at the pep rallies and are always in the thick of things when it is time for the Spirit Stick Competition, and oftentimes they win the Spirit Stick.

The school spirit shown by the juniors proves that when the time comes, they will be ready to assume the leadership role of Northeast High.

Sophomores adjust to life 'on the hill'

When the 7:45 bell rang August 29, the halls were once again flooded with nine hundred or so students ready in varying degrees to begin a new year of learning.

Old friends were reunited, but among the crowd were some teens with a look of frustration and desperation. These "little lost puppies" were the new sophomores.

Knowing where to go but not knowing how to get there, the sophomores were sometimes sent in the wrong direction by mischievous upperclassmen or were told in fun that 305 was on the third floor. After some anxious minutes, they found their supervisions and classes.

The sophomores had to adjust to different rules and new ways of doing things, but they soon adapted to their new environment.

All was calm "on the hill" a week or two later — at least until the same time next year when, for the first time, ninth graders will double the confusion of the first few weeks.

These sophomores seem a little perplexed by new material in math class.

The Rev. Lewis Wright, pastor of the First Baptist Church of New Providence, Georgia, reacts to a question from one of his English students.

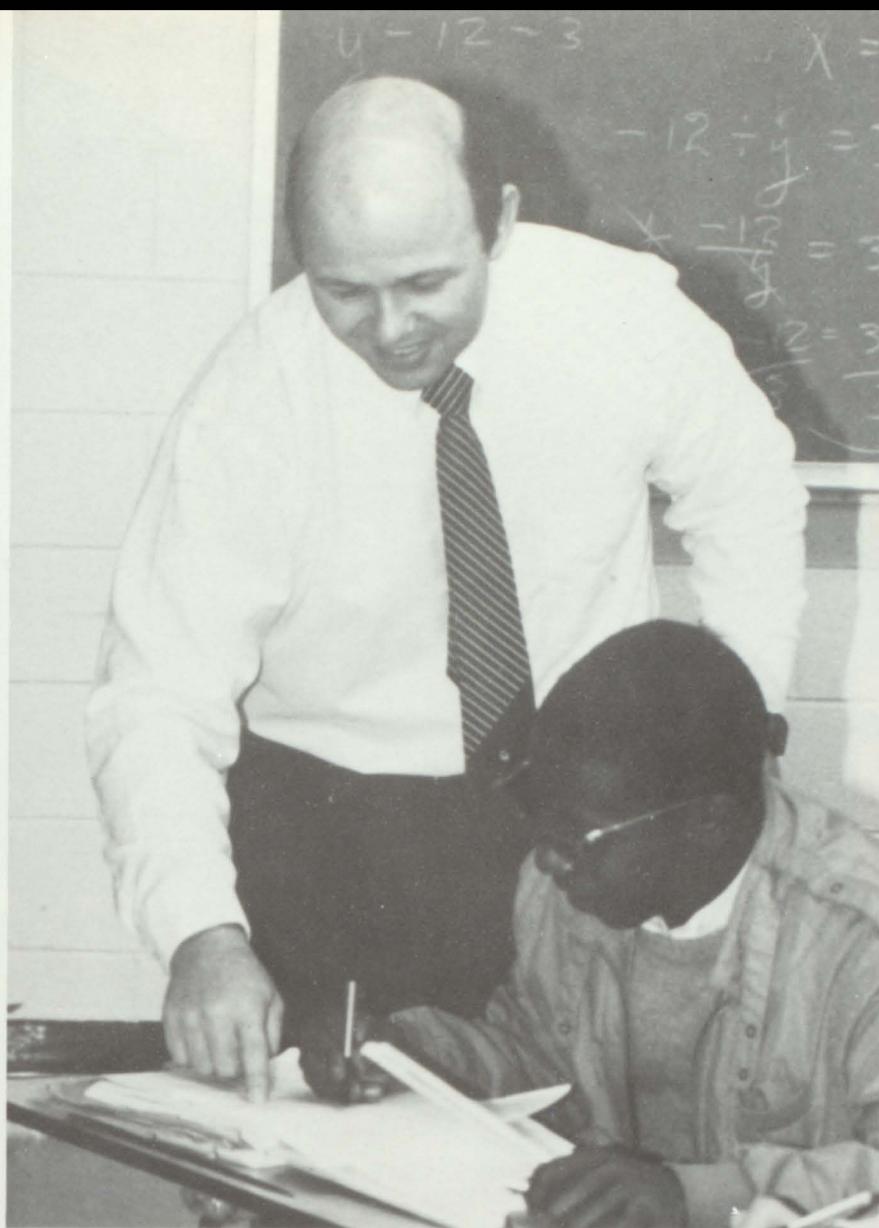

The Rev. Carl McNear, pastor of the Temple Christ Pure Holiness Church, is a Lasseter custodian.

The Rev. Alvin Hudson, pastor of the Tremont Baptist Church, aids one of his world history students, Michelle Aaron.

Harmony Baptist Church's pastor, the Rev. Curtis Hardnett, is a good counselor as well as a good pastor.

Some teachers, staff members are preachers, too!

As many as seven Northeast faculty and staff members are preachers, too.

One might think that two such important careers would be difficult to juggle at the same time. Is it hard to balance the two?

"No," says the Rev. Curtis Hardnett, counselor, "because if you are faithful to the church, you'll be there with no problem."

One would also expect that being a pastor would help a man understand students better. The Rev. Leonard Searcy, a math teacher says, "My congregation and my students are two different entities. There are times when the two overlap, but being a preacher/teacher is no hassle."

The Rev. Hardnett offered this insight. He said, "Before becoming a minister, I couldn't give students a positive outlook on life because I didn't have one myself. Now that I've discovered faith and hope, I can."

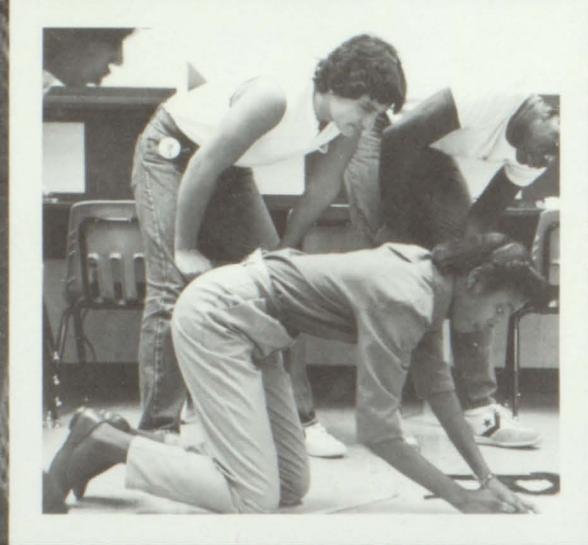

The Rev. Curtis Wilhoite, pastor of the Tennille Christian Church, takes time out to help one of his Pre-Calculus students, Etheridge Hart, with a problem.

The Rev. Odel Poole, a custodian in the vocational building, is known as a lay-preacher. He is a member of Harmony Baptist Church.

Saint John African Methodist Episcopal church's pastor, the Rev. Leonard Searcy, clowning around to break the tension of being a teacher.

new

in CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS

We as Northeast students take pride in our various clubs and organizations. Clubs such as DECA, VOCA, Mu Alpha Theta, and JROTC express what we're really trying to do here, and that is to produce young men and women that our school, our city, and the rest of Georgia will always be proud of. These various clubs and organizations also develop teamwork, leadership, and responsibility — three things that are the basis of a good future.

Mrs. Joyce Robinson, DECA club advisor, helps her class in poster-making.

Chuck Whitaker, Felicia Lowe, and Ronnie Jackson band together in making a spirit poster for DECA.

Senior Carlton Phelps looks nervous as he prepares to give blood.

Students give the gift of life

Once again the Northeast student body aided in the Red Cross's annual blood drive. Many students donated one pint of blood that would later be used to save lives.

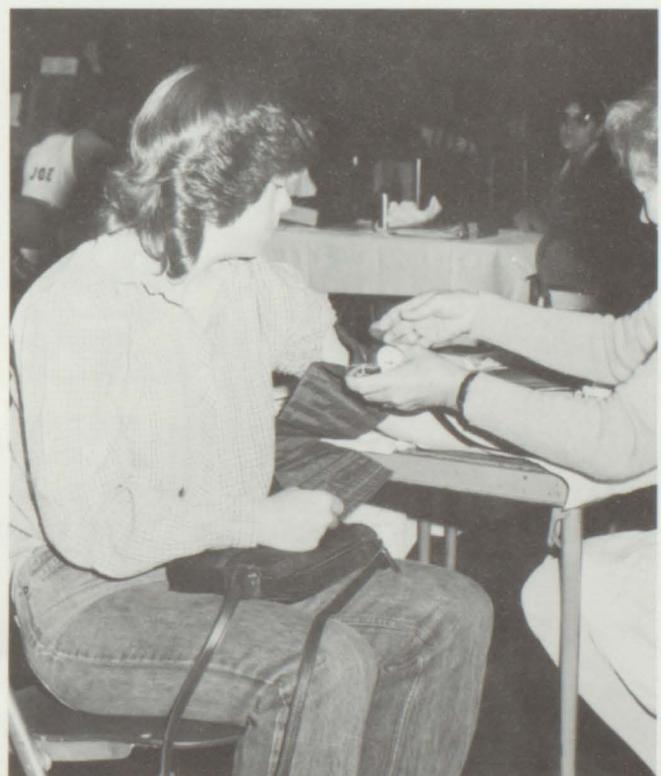

Eighty-one persons presented themselves to donate blood. Of these 81, fifteen were medically deferred, and there were four insufficient quantities. Therefore, there were 62 productive units. Even more amazing, 41 of those 62 were first time donors. A goal of 75 volunteers was met and surpassed.

Many tables were set up by the Red Cross for students to relax on while giving blood.

National Honor Society still stands for high standards

The National Honor Society is alive and well at Northeast High School. The membership has grown at a remarkable pace, while it is a strong index of a student's character and provides an impetus for consistent academic achievement and service to the school.

While our school continually changes and grows to reflect new values in society, one can be confident and optimistic that the Northeast National Honor Society will survive and grow with them.

Wesley Haynes, president, laughs at jokes from fellow members.

Peer counselors, SADD deal with real world

These two clubs concern themselves with the real world and real situations. They help others who can't cope with life as growing adults. They also deal with reality by helping others adjust.

Helping others deal with reality is only one of their specialties. They also help others appreciate themselves more as a person and let them know they have the quality and potential to succeed.

Ms. Jo Kaywood, community adviser, listens to a member's experience with a counselee.

Math, Science Clubs offer academic enrichment

Among the many clubs here at Northeast, two of the most active are the Math Club and Mu Alpha Theta. The Math Club is open to anyone with an interest in math, while Mu Alpha Theta is a national honorary math club.

The Math Club and Mu Alpha Theta members are highly involved with elementary students, sponsoring pen pals and managing tournaments. They also send Christmas and birthday cards to retired math teachers.

The Science Club is open to anyone with an interest in science. Club members are able to do much more lab work than is possible in the regular science class.

Keith Minter, Mellodie Sampson, Marlo Oliver, and Brenda Marcus were responsible for the Math Club's bulletin board.

Tonya Hill (secretary), Edrina Cornelius (treasurer), Richard Young (parliamentarian), and Jay Pittman (president) are the Science Club officers.

FHA/HERO teaches skills for homemaking, jobs

Future Homemakers of America (FHA) and Home Economics Related Occupations (HERO) are the national organizations of home economics students in middle, junior, and senior high schools of the United States.

The goal of FHA/HERO is to help youth assume their roles in society through home economics education in areas of personal growth, family life, vocational preparation, and community involvement.

FHA is for consumer and homemaking students. HERO is for occupational and job-training students. Both FHA and HERO chapters depend on the knowledge and skills of home economics education subject matter.

DECA, FBLA prepare students for marketing, retail, executive, clerical jobs

Distributive Clubs of America (DECA) and Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) are two clubs that prepare teenagers for the world of work.

DECA specializes in marketing and retailing. Much of the learning takes place in labs, workshops, and fundraisers, as well as on-the-job training.

FBLA is designed more for clerical and executive business training. Again, while students have on-the-job training, they also gain experience in simulation labs and workshops.

Members are hard at work on the computers that are available for FBLA students.

Mrs. Joyce Robinson (adviser) and Annette Brantley (president) look over DECA's club records and club dues.

Ronald Green, Curtis Spencer and Michael Simmons are proud to show off their club emblem.

VOCA, VICA prepare students for vocational, industrial jobs

Vocational Occupational Clubs of America (VOCA) and Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) are two clubs which prepare students for the job world.

Practical instruction in filling out job applications and participating in job interviews is stressed, as well as interpersonal relationships between employer and employee. On-the-job training is part of the curriculum as well.

VICA gives students practical experience in the industrial sector, such as carpentry, masonry, and drafting, as well as auto mechanics and electrical appliance repair.

Black Culture Club teaches history, pride

The purpose of the Black Culture Club is to find out more about Negro history and accomplishments.

Every first and third Wednesday in February there were speakers from the community speaking to the group.

The group was responsible for Black History Week during February.

During the spring they made a trip to the Martin Luther King Center in Atlanta.

Valhalla staff members Melissa Butts and George Dixon work toward getting a yearbook deadline finished.

Golden Star, Salmagundi, Valhalla staffers lead busy lives

Life as a member of one or more of these award-winning groups can be very hectic. Shooting pictures with no film in the camera, missing copy, and rushing for deadlines are only some of the not-so-funny things that occur on a frequent basis. Determination and hope are often the only things on one's side during those rush times.

Although the staff member's life is hurried it is also very rewarding. Seeing one's work in print is especially exciting. Staff awards, workshops, trips, conventions, etc. are some of the "fun" parts of staff life.

Membership in Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for high school journalists, is a very special honor reserved for the best workers of all three publications.

Dedication, motivation, and appreciation is what dealing with publications is all about.

Golden Star members Sharon Stephens, Richard Young and Lisa Reese work on the next issue's layout.

Jazz Rock is 'Fame' at Northeast

The Jazz Rock Ensemble is a musical course consisting of musicians, dancers, and singers. Their work and performance is somewhat like that of the television series "Fame." They have performed in various places such as the Grand Opera House.

Although this is only their second year of existence, the Northeast High School Jazz Rock Ensemble is steadily on the move. Their performance has been a job well done.

Jazz Rock students dance to the beat of the music. They are Debra Bryant, Elaine Brown, Maria Clark, Robin Wilburn, and Linda Jones.

Love of music inspires chorus

A deep, sincere love and dedication for music is what enhances the talents of Northeast's Senior High Chorus.

Their ability to express the universal language is sought through inspirational lyrics, such as spirituals and songs of love, which for them, hold feelings of great meaning.

The most spectacular event for the chorus is participating in the Festival. It is during this time that they compete musically against other high school choruses for excellence.

As a whole, a combination of true sincerity, dedication, understanding, and hard work is really what makes the chorus what it is.

Chorus members make music even during their lunch period.

Band growing, improving steadily

The Raider band program not only increased in numbers but also demonstrated a marked improvement in performance level this year.

Band members fired up pep rallies and performed on the field at half-time during the football games. In addition, a pep band was on hand for a number of home basketball games.

Parades in Milledgeville, Fort Valley, Atlanta, and Macon were brightened by the bold red, black, and gold.

With more fan support the band will be bigger and better next year.

Twirler Shiquita Ware dances as the band plays the Raider fight song.

Connie Watkins shows she has what it takes to be a dance girl.

The band works hard to prepare for an upcoming concert.

Spirit Club busy behind the scenes

Our Spirit Club is a dedicated organization. They give their all to promote more school spirit. They paint banners such as the the colorful "Raider Country" banner, arrange for buses to out-of-town games and also sponsored the school's first motorcade. To promote spirit during Homecoming week, the Spirit Club sponsored a bonfire.

The Spirit Club also organized "Brenda Cliette Day" honoring Northeast's finest former athlete.

The newest project of the Spirit Club is the "Raider Country" sign on the wall of the Lasseter building.

The Spirit Club's achievements sometimes go unnoticed, but they don't let things like that get in their way.

James Califf, Bob King, and Chuck Whitaker paint a Lasseter wall, legally, to show this year's school spirit.

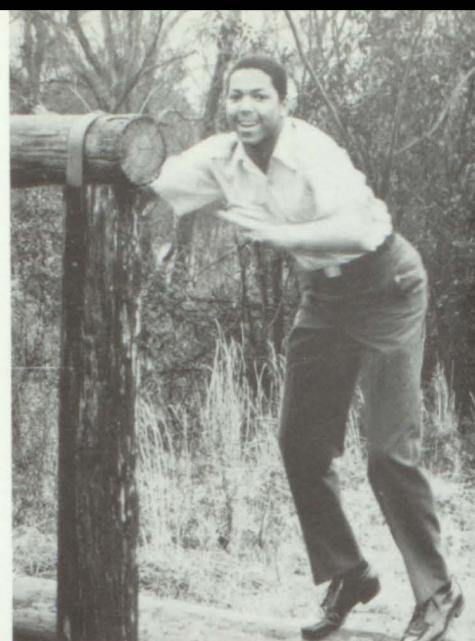

JROTC teaches leadership, pride

JROTC prepares a student for responsibility as a civilian or as a part of armed services.

Presently, there are more boys than girls, but the number of girls is increasing. The number of members in "RO" is expected to increase next year.

A person with JROTC training gets more money when entering services than an untrained person, but more than that, he has learned leadership and pride.

Frank Cook tries his skill on "the dirty name," a tri-level obstacle on the confidence course.

Cadets form Saber Arch for Homecoming Court to pass through.

Fundraising tougher without candy

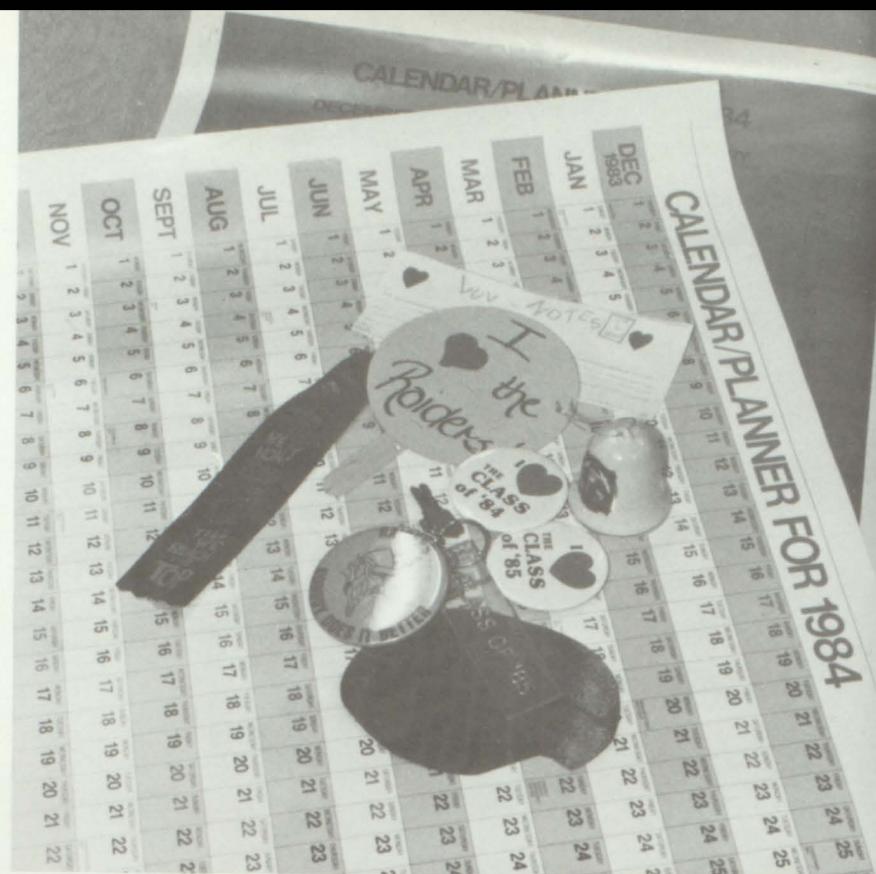

There have been many ways to raise money this year. Many of the sources formerly used to raise money have been terminated. Most foods, in general, have been excluded during school hours. Selling foods only after school has resulted in a decline of food sales.

However our school's organizations have developed new sources to raise money. Popcorn, sold by Mr. John Reeves and his VICA class, has been selling so easily that it is sold almost every day after school. Also Christmas bells sold by Sgt. Gordon Williams and the JROTC, sold very well. Other organizations, such as the Student Council, the Senior Class Representatives, and the Junior Class Representatives sold carnations, heartgrams, and singing telegrams for Valentine's Day.

Unfortunately, the sales have not reached the peak where they were before the candy selling was stopped.

These are some of the various items that school clubs and organizations have had on sale during most of the year.

Popcorn sales are one of the most popular activities after sixth period.

Michelle Lowe, Alton Clowers, and Aubrey Harrell take orders for Valentine carnations for Student Council.

Alton Clowers buys a keychain from Kiyo Wedlowe.

Nicole Bailey and Kenneth Burnett show support by purchasing school spirit ribbons from Deborah Dennard.

beginning...
in COMMUNITY/ADVERTISING

Our community is growing rapidly. The rebuilding of the downtown area has led to the expanding of many older businesses and the beginning of new ones. Because of the renovation, people have once again begun to shop downtown, as they did in the past years. Of course, the Macon Mall is still popular with consumers throughout the Middle Georgia area.

This is a view of our city from Coleman Hill, one of the most popular hideaways for our students.

Macon is the heart of Middle Georgia.

The Macon Mall is one of the more popular shopping plazas in the city.

Valhalla '84 "A New Beginning . . ."

Number of copies printed: 410. Paper: 80 lb. enamel. Type: 6, 8, 10, and 12 pt. News Gothic with Bold. Endsheets: Original design, white with hot foil stamp. Cover: Original design, silkscreened on a blue base with one applied color (white) and additional hot foil stamped design; binders board #15. Binding: Smyth sewn. Trim page size: 8½x11. Number of pages: 168.

Printer: Taylor Publishing Company, 1550 W. Mockingbird Lane, Dallas, Texas 75235. Account Executive: Debi Girlinghouse. Local Representative: Tamara Smith, 868 Boulevard, Macon, GA 31211.

Individual portrait and group pictures: Furnished by Joe Taylor of Vivid Image Photography, 1720 Winston Dr., Macon, GA 31206. Candids: Supplied by staff photographers Sarita Brown, Chuck Whitaker, Angela Huff, Ronnie Jackson.

Art: Cover, opening section, and division pages designed and executed by Angela Huff.

Theme: "A New Beginning . . ." originated by Angela Huff, Debbie Swift, and Mrs. Carole Ford during the Georgia Yearbook Workshop at Georgia Tech in August, 1983, sponsored by Taylor Publishing Company. This theme seemed appropriate to 1983-84 since there were a number of renewals, changes, etc. expected on campus, particularly the resurrection of the yearbook after a two-year absence.

Memberships: Columbia Scholastic Press Association (CSPA), Southern Interscholastic Press Association (SIPA), Georgia Scholastic Press Association (GSPA).

Staff: Angela Huff, editor; Karen Bonnett, managing editor; Debbie Swift, graphics editor; John DeShazer, Kathy Boutwell, copy editors; Bob King, index editor; Sarita Brown, Chuck Whitaker, photography editors; Ed Flowers, business manager; Melissa Butts, Eric John, ad managers; Alfonso Hoskins, circulation manager; Lisa Towles, promotion manager; George Dixon, Angela Hess, Bill Hudson, Conrad Hughes, Ronnie Jackson, Bennie Lamb, Michael Rhodes, Leonard Weaver, staff members; Mrs. Carole B. Ford, adviser.

(Since the Valhalla is a spring delivery book, spring sports coverage must be completed in March and no coverage of the prom, graduation, and other spring activities is possible.)

WHAT WE CALL THE BEGINNING IS OFTEN THE END
AND TO MAKE AN END IS TO MAKE A BEGINNING . . .
AN EASY COMMERCE OF THE OLD AND THE NEW . . .
A PATTERN OF TIMELESS MOMENTS . . .
